

Limitless Mind: Learn, Lead and Live without Barriers.

Prof. Jo Boaler, Stanford

Recent years have seen an explosion of scientific evidence showing that there is a different way to learn, lead and live. When people take a limitless approach to learning and leading, different pathways open up. Mindset messages are important but they do not take root unless they are accompanied by a different approach to content and learning. In this session we will consider what this different approach is. We will think together about ways to learn, lead and live without barriers.